PHC 2 – 2015: Understanding diseases: systems medicine

Specific challenge: The development of new improved understanding of the often very complex (bio) medicine approaches have the potential to take advantage of a variety of biological and medical research disciplines. A collaborative approach is required to assemble the expertise in biology, medicine, mathematics, computational science and systems medicine approaches.

Scope: Proposals should focus on new avenues for understanding phenotypes in multifactorial diseases and/or development/optimisation and/or application of systems medicine of biomedical and clinical data to produce or refine computational and mathematical approaches. The approaches should be validated in well-phenotyped patient cohorts, taking into account potential thoroughly investigated.

The Commission considers that proposals requiring a maximum of EUR 4 and 6 million would allow this specific challenge to be addressed. Nonetheless, this does not preclude submission of proposals for larger amounts.

Expected impact: This will provide:

- Leverage of existing investments in Europe
- New directions for better disease detection and diagnosis
- Systems medicine tools and approaches that will be used in clinical practice which represent an improvement over current practice

Type of action: Research and Innovation action
